I started "White Water Terror" a few weeks ago and I've been so busy since then I really haven't had time to read anything for leisure. That and the book kind of had a slow start, so I didn't feel compelled to find random bits of time to read more and more of it.

White Water Terror (Nancy Drew Files, #6) by Carolyn Keene

White water rafting isn't exactly my thing, but this sixth outing in the Nancy Drew Files series was great fun nonetheless. Plenty of suspenseful moments, and a story that will keep you on the edge of your seat; what's not to like? I have definitely enjoyed this series; it's a bit of old school fun!
